CIVIC GUARD PLANNED

To Maintain Order During Strike in England.

London Dally Mall Forecasts Steps to Be Taken by Government to Protect Public Service.

London, Feb. 6.-The ministry of it is spreading throughout Great Britain and Ireland if union officials fail to gain control of the situation.

The following statement was is sued:

"The government regards the labor situation as a fight between regular regular leaders are unable to gain control the government will then intervene for the protection of society."

Plans for the formation of a civic guard to maintain and protect public service have been submitted to the authorities, according to the Mail, which says that a similar plan has been successfully employed in Switzerland, Holland and Australia.

The newspaper states that should the actions of the strikers warrant such a course, the citizens may be asked to form a guard to maintain transport, lighting and food supply services and also to guard power stations, flour mills and important factories.

The cabinet and various government departments concerned in the labor troubles have been very active seeking a solution of the difficulties. There have been numerous interviews and conferences with representatives of the strike movements and trade unions. One important result is the recognition by the government of the rallway clerks' organization.

LEAGUE WON'T BREAK PACTS, SAYS BALFOUR

British Foreign Minister Declares Alliances Will Be Permitted.

O.K.PART OF CONSTITUTION

Preamble and Two of the Articles Agreed to by Committee-Satisfactory Progress Made on Other Parts of Draft.

Paris, Feb. 6.-Alliances between the various nations will not be affected by the existence of the society of nations now in process of formation, it was declared by Arthur J. Balfour to newspaper interviewers. The forelgn secretary was asked the direct question as to whether the formation of the world society would involve the abrogation of alliances.

"The constitution of the league of nations," responded the foreign secretary, "will involve no modification of the treaties of alliance previously con-

"As to the question whether special coalitions of two or several peoples could be formed aside from the league," Mr. Balfour added, "the conference alone can decide."

Satisfactory progress is being made ized as follows: Two main plans have been preinmission regard as embodying the are composite, containing the best features from various sources, American, British, French and Italian.

First Plan Democratic.

Both plans are being considered tosmall powers, whereas the revised plan eliminates them from the executive mans branch of the proposed organization with a fundamental basis of codified international law.

The first plan had three main features:

First-A legislative branch, on which the great and small nations were equally represented, each as a unit. Second-An executive branch consisting of two members from each of the great powers, United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, and nine members chosen from the small powers. This gave the executive body a total membership of nineteen, of whom ten represented the great powers, and nine represented the small Third-Arbitration was provided for the determination of international issues. In case of a dispute between two nations, each nation named arbitrators, and these two selected a third arbitrator. Three arbitrators thus chosen constituted a tribunal for determining the issues.

Favored by Small Nations.

The foregoing, on broad lines, is the project which meets with most favor among the small nations, as they would be represented both on the legislative and executive branches.

It is to be noted that such an organization would follow somewhat the lines of the present peace conference, as the legislative branch is analogous to the plenary session of the conference, while the executive branch is similar to the council of the great powers now holding daily sessions.

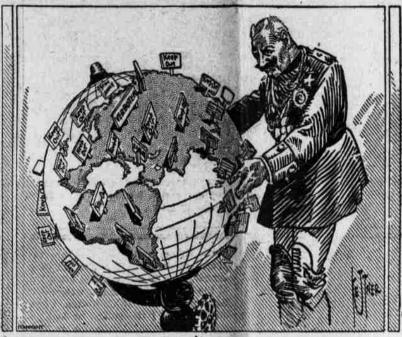

The revised plan makes several important changes. The legislative branch remains the same, with the great and small nations represented. The executive branch is modified, however, so as to consist chiefly of the great powers, with two representatives from each, to which others from the small powers may be added when interests especially affecting them are at issue. Court Supplants Arbitration.

The third branch is entirely changed, to eliminate the plan of arbitrators and substitute an executive council of the great powers as a tribupal for judging international issues analogous to the international supreme council. It is the two latter features which are regarded by the small powers as tending to concentrate the executive and judicial branches in the hands of the great powers, whereas the small powers prefer the plan giving them a status on the executive branch and arbitration as a means of judicial determination, instead of a tribunal of the great powers.

Outnumber Foes Two to One.

On Nov. 1 when the enemy's reserves had been exhausted and his front line strength reduced by about half, the allies had rifle strength of 1.485,000, representing odds of upward of two to one.

From July 1, as the Americans continued to arrive, the allies' superiority showed continued growth over the Germans, who had dropped on Nov. 1 to a strength ofg 866,000.

When the great German drive was launched in the spring of 1918 the enemy had a definite superiority of approximately 20 per cent, the figures for April 1 showing rifle strength for the allies of 1,245,000 and a German total of 1,569,000. The Germans reached their maximum June 1 with 1,639,000, while the allies reached their their maximum June 1, with 1,639, 000, while the allies reached their maximum on Sept. 1, with 1,682,000.

Meaning of Rifle Strength.

The meaning of the rifle strength upon which the table is based is made clear by the fact that an American division with a total strength of approximately 27,000 fighting men is rated as 12,250 rifles.

The department's table shows that the rush of American troops to Europe when the German great drive was launched not only succeeded in making good all losses for the allies from month to month at the front, but steadily increased the strength of the allies' armies actually engaged. Figures on the hundreds of thousands of Americans who were train ing behind the lines are not given.

BRITISH TRADE EMBARGO FIGHT

DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS IN SENATE ANTAGONIZING ENGLAND'S ACT,

Calling Attention to the Effect It Would Have On American Industry -Remember 1812, Says Lewis.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington.-Democrats and Republicans in the senate joined in criticizing the new British embargo on imports and calling attention to the effect it would have on American industry. During the discussion that followed, Senator Reed, of Missouri, Democrat, attacked the Carnegie Peace Foundation activities abroad, questioned its loyalty, and declared it should be dissolved. Senators Knox, of Pennsylvania, Republican, and Ashurst, of Arizona, Democrat, joined in the attack. Senator Knox said although the American people had expressed the opinion that they had a right to send coastwise vessels through the Panama Canal, without charge, and three big political parties had indorsed this policy, "this Carnegle peace organization spent $25,000 or $30,000 to circulate literature urging the repeal of the act conferring that right to shipping."

"I think the Pennsylvania Senator should have added," interrupted Senator Thomas, of Colorado, "that much of that fund was spent for the purpose of circulating a speech made in the Senate by Elihu Root in favor of the repeal of this act." Senator Ashurst declared that his party's failure to keep its pledge regarding that act February of protests against the fed-"had done more to undermine confidence in the Democratic party than anything we ever did."

Senator Knox stated that he beieved the free tolls question could have been amicably settled without appeal. It will awaken sentiment that will make it difficult for the President to succeed in his efforts and awaken hostility, create a war of protest and lead to retaliatory legislation by the United States. And before we knew it we will have trade hostility. Instead of having the calm peace we wish with our allies we will have enmity instead of the peace we strive
